“Cabin Fever”relievers a prelude to February Vacation Week

Last Friday, as part of a tradition, middle school students from Phillips gathered in the gym for a pre-vacation day of festivities that included such fine events as the Plunger Race. The Olympic committee may want to take a look at this one and look at Jake Davenport (right) who passes the competition as he approached the finish.

Strong School K-2nd graders, above, celebrated the 100th day of school this past Tuesday. Each class created a paper chain with 100 links which they linked together at the final ‘end of the day’ celebration. In an effort to help their community, the students also gathered together canned goods, which they counted, in order to help support the Economic Ministry’s local food pantry.

Teachers skooled at Mt. Abram

Winterfest at Mt. Abram was forced to be an inside event due to weather conditions. Here the seniors (group at right), winners of the first ever MTA Sled Dogs Open came out and skooled the teaching staff (group at left). With the win of this event, the senior sled dogs proved to dominate the day.
