

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

More A & E on page 2

Sue Downes-Borko and Victor Borko will perform at a candlelight concert at the Log Church July 20 and 21.

Candlelight concert in Rangeley

OQUOSSOC — Rangeley Friends of the Arts will present a candlelight concert, featuring classical guitar, flute and voice by Sue Downes-Borko and Victor Borko, July 20 and 21, at the Log Church. Last year's concert was sold out with standing room only. The RFA has tickets available now for the two nights in July.

Downes-Borko received her music-education degree (flute) from the University of Massachusetts. She has been teaching piano and flute lessons for more than 20 years in addition to eight years as a teacher in public schools in Alaska. After seven years as staff accompanist at the College of New Jersey's School of Music, she and her husband settled in the western mountains of Maine.

In Rangeley, Downes-Borko is the minister of music at the Rangeley Congregational Church, serves on the executive board of the Rangeley Friends of the Arts, accompanies school choirs, directs a handbell choir, performs as a vocal/flute/piano soloist, is a member of the Hot Airs Flute Quartet, participates in community theater and has played at many weddings.

Borko is a graduate of the Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts, where he studied classical/jazz guitar and music education. As a professional guitarist, he has performed in musical productions of "Jesus Christ Superstar," "Man of La Mancha," "Grease," "Cabaret" and "Godspell." He played with the professional touring production of the Broadway musical "Evita" and has played for many celebrities, including Bobby Rydell, Don Rickles and Bob Hope. Since age 12, he has performed in numerous musical groups/bands in a wide variety of musical styles. He also enjoys arranging and composing music.

After college, Borko, who was born and raised in Philadelphia, moved to Alaska where he was a music educator for the Kenai Peninsula Borough School District and where he met his wife, Sue. The couple now resides in the Rangeley region and run Gull Pond Music Studio. Borko plays at St. Luke's and Our Lady of the Lakes Roman Catholic churches and enjoys performing sacred music and hymns on the classical guitar.

The concert will begin at 7 p.m. Tickets, $15, are available now at the Rangeley Lakes Chamber of Commerce 864-5364.

Kingfield Festival Days

Thursday to Sunday
July 16 to 19

Theme: Game Shows

NEW!

Long Drive Golf Competition
Let's Make A Deal Game
Vertical Outlaws
And More!

NEW!

Back By Popular Demand!

Grand Parade – 12p.m. Saturday

Music under the tent by Truth About Daisies,
Josh Stewart &
the Bad Penny Band

Kids Fun Time & Crafts
Amateur Photo Contest

Flower Show

Child Fingerprinting

Quilt Show

Street Dance
w/ Chesapeake DJs &
Don't Forget The Lyrics Game

Scavenger Hunt

Crowning of Mrs. Kingfield

Truck Pull
w/drag & weights
used in previous years

Climbing Wall

Artisan Fair

Pet Parade

Bike & Doll Carriage Parade

Skateboard Jam

Fly Casting
w/ Aardvark Outfitters

Chicken BBQ

Whatever Floats Parade
- sitcom theme

Mud Football

Bring Your Best Dish Cook-off Pie Eating Contest

For more information contact Myra Coffin at 265-2700, email mcoffin@tds.net or visit the website at www.kingfield-me.gov

Veil workshop set

KINGFIELD — A free veil workshop for women, instructed by Nova Wagg, at the Orange Cat Café on Main Street, July 9, beginning at 1 p.m. or July 10 for a rain date.

Instructor Nova Wagg urges those attending to bring "A positive attitude and comfortable clothing that helps you feel good. What is in our minds, acts out in the way we move, and we are going to practice with veils and positive thoughts. Thus, using body psychotherapy." Veils will be provided and will be for sale upon arrival.

The Bare Foot Truth is a group, headed by Wagg that meets in Grand Central Station on Mondays at 10 a.m. to practice using veils and more.

COUNTRY continued from page 2

online at www.saddlebackmaine.com, at the new Guest Service Center on Main Street or at the Base Lodge.

The concert series begins with Hal Ketchum on July 25. On Aug. 20, Suzy Boggus performs. The series culminates with Asleep at the Wheel on Sept. 3.

All concerts begin at 8 p.m. For reservations call 864-5671.

MICHAEL