Fall fly-fishing fun

Most all of the fishing season came to an end last month, but some streams and rivers remained open with special bag limits and catch-n-release regulations such as special rules placed on Carrabassett River. Ben Meade of Amherst, N.H. and Kingfield, takes full advantage of the fall fly fishing. Here he releases a beauty last Sunday. This male 12- to 14-inch brook trout features an awesome humped back, vibrantly defined spots and a bright orange belly signifying the time of year — spawning season. Meade quickly got this good-looking guy back to business in the cooling waters of the Carrabassett River.
