JMG initiation, installation held

SKOWHEGAN — John Witherspoon, president and CEO of Skowhegan Savings, gave the keynote address on Oct. 29, for the students at the Jobs for Maine's Graduates' annual Initiation and Installation Ceremony. The ceremony was held at Carrabec High School, in North Anson.

"At Skowhegan Savings, we're very committed to financial literacy and economic development. We see this program as helping achieve those two goals, as it provides educational programs that mold the workforce of tomorrow," stated Witherspoon. "JMG is a great program and we're proud to have donated $2,500 to the organization, as well as the proceeds from two of our ongoing workshops for small businesses in Central Maine. I was honored to give the keynote and look forward to these students embracing the opportunities JMG will offer."

The student-led Carrabec Career Association of JMG hosts the Initiation and Installation Ceremony each year. This is the formal induction of the students into the JMG high school program. The students were responsible for the entire event and hosted a dinner for attendees.

JMG's mission is to identify students who face barriers to education, and to guide each one on to a successful path toward continued education, a meaningful career, and productive adulthood. JMG provides students who are at risk of disengaging from school the skills and motivation needed to succeed in higher education and the workforce. The Jobs for Maine's Graduates high school program is delivered as a for-credit course in conjunction with the student's regular course load. Hosted at public schools, administered by JMG, and actively engaging the participation of businesses, JMG offers a venue for students to interact with employers and community-based organizations.
